

Postcard from my teacher

Dear Beech,

I hope you have all had a good week and have been keeping busy with lots of interesting activities. The good news is that, from Monday, I will be able to send you my response to all your wonderful work through the learning2email! So, please do send in your pictures, writing and photos.

My other good news is that my sunflowers have finally started to sprout! They should bring some cheer in the summer, smiling over the garden fence at the little girls who live next door. Also, we have finished decorating the bedroom and we are just waiting for the new curtain pole and lamps to arrive.

I am still walking every day, so I am pleased to have discovered a new route to explore: around my local nature reserve (photo opposite). The reed beds, heathland and lake not only look pretty, but they are also full of wildlife, including bats, swallows, toads and newts. Fortunately, I haven't yet come across any of the snakes which are supposed to live there! Phew! Have a good week! Mrs Duerden
