

Postcard from my teacher

Dear Beech,

I hope you have been enjoying the wonderful weather this week! I confess that the warm weather has made me a little bit more relaxed this week and I've spent quite a bit of time reading on a deck chair in the garden. I'm still reading Michelle Obama's book.

The plants which I bought last week seem to have taken well, and I am being careful to water them every day. With all this sunshine, they should grow quickly!

I have also taken advantage of the new guidelines about being able to meet one person from a different household outside, to meet up with an old university friend. We met in the local forest park, which is halfway between our houses, and we walked her dogs for an hour. She has two American springer spaniels (like the one opposite). It was great to swap news and have a laugh again. I hope you have also been able to have a fun trip out or to meet up with someone special.

Have a great week! Mrs Duerden
