

Postcard from my teacher

Dear Chestnut,

I can't believe it has been a whole month since we saw each other last! I am missing you all dearly, however am also happy that you get to spend extra time with your loved ones.

I think I have finally cracked bread baking, although I'm sure my bread still isn't as tasty as the loaves you baked in school last term! At the moment, I am reading an exciting book called, 'The Colour of Magic' which is all about the adventures of a strange wizard. What are you reading at the moment?

My one-year-old son, Alex, is also 'helping' me with the gardening. He definitely seems more interested in finding snails and worms though.

I can't wait to see you all again and hear about what you been doing. I will write again soon!

Love Miss Smith
